

Writing becomes a family affair

The first Family Writing Night was held Thursday at Hillside Middle School. It is an effort by the National Writing Project to encourage children to write more. Parents enjoyed a pasta dinner and then wrote with their children. The effort involved children from Webster Elementary and Hillside. At left, Green Acres student Mason McCarty reads a story he wrote.

MARK HAYWARD / UNION LEADER

Four-year-old Cameron Puente shows off his drawing to his mother, Anastasia Berhmann, during the Family Writing Night.

MARK HAYWARD / UNION LEADER