

2014

NATIONAL WRITING PROJECT IN NEW HAMPSHIRE
CONFERENCE
CONCORD, NEW HAMPSHIRE
OCTOBER 24, 2014

CALL FOR PROPOSALS

The National Writing Project in New Hampshire, host of the 2014 NWPNH Conference on October 24, 2014, invites proposals for presentations that are strong examples of our teachers teaching teachers model.

We are looking for workshops that are interactive, encourage writing and responding, and share ideas relevant to educators.

To submit a session proposal, please complete the following form and email it to Kari Allen (kari.diederich.allen@gmail.com) or mail it to:

4 Groton Drive, Concord, New Hampshire, 03301.

Presenters will be asked to meet before the conference to prep and plan their workshops. This date will be set at a later date.

Presenters will be notified when their proposal is received and again when accepted. Proposals are due by August 20th.

You can use a separate sheet if there is not enough room for your write-ups.

Please feel free to email with any questions.

Kari Allen
Phone: 603-707-0172
Email: kari.diederich.allen@gmail.com

National Writing Project in New Hampshire Fall 2014 Conference
Call for Workshop Proposals

National Writing Project
in New Hampshire
because writing matters

Contact person (if more than one presenter):

NWPNH Fellow Year:

School and Role:

Contact person's mailing address:

Contact person's email:

Contact person's phone (include area code):

Presentation title (as you wish it to appear in the program):

Presenter(s) Bio:

Summary (brief description to be used in the program, no more than 50 words):

Workshop description (250 words maximum):

All the rooms are equipped with LCD projectors and computers. If you are working on a MAC, you will need a cord attachment to be able to hook up to the system. If you need additional equipment, please list it here and we will do our best to find it.

Proposed audience (check all that apply):

Elementary Middle Secondary University General

